TIPS FOR PARENTS

Pest Tips

- Seal cracks in your home's exterior to help keep pests like ants, spiders and cockroaches from getting inside.
- Be sure all doors and windows are properly sealed with tight-fitting screens and weather stripping.
- Don't leave uncovered food sitting out. It can attract flies that might land on it and spread harmful bacteria.
- Ensure that the attic and crawl space have sufficient ventilation. Proper ventilation creates an environment unsuitable for cockroaches and other pests. It also improves the heating and cooling efficiency of the home.
- Do not allow pet food to sit out overnight, indoors or outdoors.
- Remove any piles of debris, stones, bricks, etc., around your home. They serve as a harborage for pests, especially rodents.
- Rid your yard of standing water every few days, including water that may be left from rain or sprinklers in a flower pot, bird baths, tarps, etc. Mosquitoes can lay 3,000 eggs in just a few weeks in a small amount of water. In addition to mosquito bites being a danger to your family, mosquitoes can also cause canine heartworm.

Termite Tips

- Repair any roof or plumbing leaks as soon as possible. These leaks can allow termites to survive aboveground in a house.
- Prevent mulch, soil and firewood from touching the siding of your home. They make it much easier for termites to enter.
- Seal nail holes and cracks in exposed wood to help prevent easy access by drywood termites.
- A well-organized termite colony can have more than one million hungry workers consuming over 100 pounds of wood per year. The average cost per home for termite treatments and damage repairs is more than $8,000 and homeowner's insurance rarely covers the damage. Altogether, termite damage costs about $5 billion every year in America.
- Terminix offers free, no-obligation inspections.
